

INSTALLATION OF FERRY ACROSS RIVER WOULD WORK GREAT BENEFIT

Agitation Started Eighteen Months Ago Would Be More Fruitful Now—Ferry Would Bring
Thousands of Dollars to Local Merchants.

Eighteen months ago The Review took up the question of establishing a ferry service across the Saskatchewan river to enable the farmers of country for miles toward the border to get into Redcliff with their products and provision with no necessities here. The farmers were understood to be willing to do their part and would grade a road down to the water's edge on their side of the river.

Hon. Mitchell, of the Department of Public Works, gave promise of governmental assistance. In the amount of $1,500, toward the grading of a road one of the long colliers on this side of the river. It was estimated that $5,000 would be necessary to complete a road out into the side hill of the colliers, wide enough for heavy teams to pass, and long enough to reduce the otherwise heavy grade.

Then it is up to the local people to raise $5,000 for the road. The next item is the ferry, main steel cables, drop cables and capstan, and anchor posts which with the heavy cable would be anchored. It is understood that the entire expense of this equipment would be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

With this service bridging the river 150 farmers who are now driving clear to Medicine Hat could be brought into Redcliff and glad of the opportunity, to say nothing of the economical good feeling it would engender among local merchants in having these prosperous farmers come in here with their trading.

There are a dozen to fifteen retailers, butchers and professional men here on whom the burden would fall which would mean $300, apiece, but some of the real estate men might take part in the movement.

MASONS SURPRISE THE NICHOLSONS

The members of Quarry Lodge, A. F. and M. surprised the residents of Fifth street last night. After a pleasant social evening the party presented Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson with a fine mahogany mantle clock as a wedding present. The clock is provided with Westminster chimes. W. H. Hatcher acted as toastmaster and called on several present for remarks, the last one being Mr. W. J. Henderson son, who presented the present to the couple.

Police Court.

In the Rowan—Sutherland case of use of vile language the complainant was found guilty and fined. The Sutherland case, involving without a license resulted in the payment of the regular license fee and the costs of holding court—$29.50 in all.

In the Ramet case of assault on the cook of the Redcliff Hotel in front of the building the defendant was fined guilty, reprimanded for persistent disorderlies and fined, total, including costs, of $7.75.

Joe Holland was in court on a couple of charges this week, one of them appearing to be an unintentional commission of the crime of taking C. P. R. lumber. Mr. Holland thought that the lumber was waste material. At any rate, he was let down upon making restitution.

J. R. Lawson and F. F. McBride were in court last week on mild charges of disorderlies. McBride was in a dispute with a man at the Redcliff Hotel while Lawson, a rather boisterous. Neither proved serious and both men were released after making it right with the Court.

HIGH PRESSURE CAUSE OF POOR STREET LIGHTS

Has Been Main Source of Trouble, but Soon to Be Remedied.

REGULATORS ON WAY.

Askwith Says It Is Out of Question to Maintain on Present Pressure.

City Engineer Askwith has explained the faulty street lighting conditions to a cause which we were well aware of as partly responsible, but did not consider wholly so, although Mr. Armstrong, of the firm of Armstrong and Lynch, Plumbars, ascribed the darkness of Redcliff to the same obstacle when talking to a representative of The Review early last week.

Mr. Askwith states that the trouble is entirely due to the high gas pressure which has been a source of annoyance from the beginning. The mantles go to pieces under the pressure or split and allow long flames to work on the globes continuously in one spot, which in time breaks them down.

Mr. Askwith says that he has been advised that high pressure regulators have been on the way for some time, and Mr. Lyons, of the Gas and Light Co., confirms this statement, having informed us that the order of which the regulators are a part was billed thirty days ago. Mr. Lyons states that the regulators will be installed immediately on their arrival. The gas will then be adjusted to the proper giving the maximum light without breaking the globes.

Mr. Askwith says that the style of lights in use here have been highly successful in the flat, and that the air circulation in use prevents breakage, but that until the pressure regulators come nothing can be done. There are about fifty lights in town and where the town has light fitting fixtures, globes etc., on six or six weeks ago, as was stated in council meeting, today there are but four out of five. This diminution in the supply can be laid at the door of breakage due to the high pressure. It is useless to waste any more dollars, says Mr. Askwith, until the pressure is toned down. At the present rate of spoilage it figures out a maintenance cost in fixtures alone of $5,000 a year, or $100 per light.

Time after time the lights have been put in perfect shape but are all at pieces the next day. Mr. Armstrong, from his experience in the matter, states that the over-pressure cannot be left responsible.

TWO MACK LEAVE SCOTLAND TODAY

In a letter received by the Review passed from Glasgow, Scotland, under date of July 28, Donald MacLachlan states that he and his Redcliff friend, James S. McLean, are leaving there today, Aug. 15th, for America on the Steamer Graupner and will stay in Toronto and Winnipeg a few days on their way to the town that made Alberta, so they expect to be on September 1st, last night. Mr. MacLachlan says they have traveled quite a bit since they left, but have failed to find another Redcliff. He says both of them are very anxious to get back.

PAINTED SPECTRES MUCH IN EVIDENCE; PROOF IS AMPLE; SHAKEUP NEEDED

Proof Positive of One Disorderly House—Others Under Suspicion—Menace to Respectability—Boldness of Women Is Insulting; too Brazen to Escape Detection—Cleanup Necessary to Protect Home People.

Redcliff for the past ten days or two weeks has been infested with a disreputable class of women who not only ply their trade by night, but are brazenly rubbing elbows with decent women by day, and if the Chief of Police doesn't put a stop to the disgraceful conduct, we will see to it that it is put down by other means.

We've got the goods and we're not going to stop. We haven't been trying to get for ten days without finding out a few things. We can produce a witness to attest that the writer has been approached by women without any advances leading up to it in such a way that their actions could not be misunderstood.

We have seen shady reputations at dances lately—dances whose promoters were trying to conduct the entertainments in a way that would appeal to the mothers of decent young girls. We all have seen a cantering equine advertisement all day long. How about other young women who meet such a character while riding on the street? How are they protected? Redcliff has been worse this last day than any mining camp.

because a decent woman in a mining camp is accorded far more respect. The institution we refer to is recognized in a mining camp and is held in its place. Here it is not recognized and the whole town is contaminated.

The street effrontery of a couple of women who have been parading the streets this week would make the "Coats" in Frisco blush and it high time that something was done to rid the town of this class of women.

We can produce positive evidence that one place in town has been running as an immoral house. We have the word of mouth of another man that insolent immorality may have been abiding in his place, but that inasmuch as he and others do not cross the path of or discover any disorderliness on the part of tenants that therefore the place by deduction must be as pure as a turnip. May be, but we're from Missouri. We know of a third temporary habitation that has been much frequented. One of its tenants has left and we have seen the chief investigating this place. What we demand is that the chief and his subordinate under his direction keep on the trail of these women until the town is rid of them. The taxpayers have a right to demand it.

We have heard of a fourth place that has been spoken of as having an unsavory reputation, but know nothing definite. The authorities certainly know these things.

Over two months ago when Frank Skelchew was up for trial on a charge of running a questionable place we were assured that no such things would live under the present regime. But they are. We argued ardently at that time that if the problem took on such complexities it would be better to recognize and provide for it under proper regulation, and we still contend the same if there is no other possible way. The home people have got to be protected.

This Review is going to fight clandestine prostitution in this town and shall as long as it continues. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, and if one man is to be prevented from doing certain things another should be.

The Review is going to fight clandestine prostitution in this town and shall as long as it continues.

Accused of Attempted Bribery; Out on Heavy Bail of $10,000

Walter Turner Taken by Surprise—Declares His Innocence—Case Up This Morning—Looks Like Opening Gun.

Yesterday, shortly after noon, W. Turner was taken into custody today by Chief of Police Sullivan and was later released on heavy bail in the amount of $10,000. Local men went on his trial. He was later detained about two-and-one-half hours.

The reason for placing the bail fixed was the gravity of the charge, which, in short, alleges that Turner offered bribe money to the Chief amounting to a regular contribution of $100 a month as "bush money" to carry on gambling in town. The document of information and complaint was shown to a Review representative yesterday afternoon, while the accused was still in custody.

A representative of The Review last night Mr. Turner made the following statement:

"I had no idea as to what the chief wanted when he came to the police where I was crammed in conversation with a man from the hotel. He requested me to come to his office in the City Hall, which I did, he stating that he wanted to talk with me.

"When we got into his office he turned to me and said: 'Now I'll show you and that's a stolen pigeon of yours on this Review where you got off at.'

"Then I told me I was under arrest but I did not know what. When I did learn that it was on a bribery charge I was dumfounded, as I have never tried to bribe anyone, much less would I try to bribe the chief. If anything, we would rather find that if these things did exist that the chief had failed to observe them, rather than that I was in enforcing the law or other things I showed them to run unimpeded.

The above is Mr. Turner's side of the case and is a forerunner of what may be expected from the defense this morning when the case is called at ten o'clock. We know absolutely nothing in furtherance of this and such proof as the chief may have will, of course, be aired in court.

Now as far as the chief's alleged statement in which he is apparently trying to stretch a Review hide on the fence, we have for information only Mr. Turner's statement, but it is true the Chief had better get out of glass houses. The chief is said that we, including Turner, were trying to lay a trap for him.

We have no predilection for Mr. Turner nor no raised hand against him personally, nor for or against any one else in town. We, The Review, have been conducting an investigation on the side ourselves, but only once have we conversed at length with Mr. Turner, and that was in the street in front of the Redcliff Hotel for an hour on Tuesday afternoon. The talk at that time was foreign to the Chief.

The writer while scouting around has seen the Chief several times, and evidently that, coupled with the fact that we were seen in conversation with Turner, led the Chief to feel that there was something in the air.

The Chief is jumping at conclusions.

In investigating conditions in this town for the benefit of the people it does not necessarily signify that we were out gunning for the Chief. If anything, we would rather find that if these things did exist that the Chief had failed to observe them, rather than that I was in enforcing the law or other things I showed them to run unimpeded.

Things have come to a head, the furniture is out in the yard and when the house is cleaned we hope that the sweepings will not reflect too heavily.

But as for contaminating disreputable places under cover, we are on the other side of the fence and are going to work for cleanliness inside as well as out. The public have a right to know of conditions in their midst.

TESTIMONY IN TURNER CASE THIS NOON.

In advance of the following testimony brought to light this noon in police court we would like to inform the Chief of Police that he is treading on very precarious grounds. Who is this omnipotent office-holder who can call a far more moral person than he is a blank of a blank? What kind of a tyrant have we in our office? He has about gone his rope. He had better be careful. We can bring out a few things about Chief Sullivan.

For the scare he has gotten it looks like an admission. Better be careful, Chief.

As for our talk with Mr. Turner the other day, another column will show the opposite of any friendship between Turner and the writer to get the Chief if the reader can read between the lines. We show that we would never figure on going to the place we refer to in the expectation of finding a little class in session there. We place the place that we heard several complaints about. Mr. Sullivan's imagination are quite far-fetched.

THE TESTIMONY

Court opened at 10.10 with Magistrate Henderson in the chair. Sullivan takes the oath, states he has heard several complaints about the Palace Rooming House, commencing two weeks ago; kept the same under observation and observed autos frequently driving up at the midnight hours; noticed men and women leaving the notice and entering by the back door. Ten days ago he told Constable Reynolds to keep the place under close scrutiny.

Wednesday evening the Chief saw a telegram to Chief of Police Davis of Lethbridge, inquiring concerning the reputation of a certain woman now in Redcliff and also of the record of Mr. Turner and one Mac Millan. The reply stated that Walter Turner was not convicted of anything there but that the woman and the other man were. The woman went under the name of "Daisy Martin" there.

Sullivan stated that he knew Mac Millan to have been with-out any evident employment. As soon as the telegram was received Sullivan wrote out a warrant for Mac Millan as a vagrant, but the individual had flown.

To be brief, Sullivan went after Turner and asked him to his office. Turner Complied. On reaching the office he turned to Turner and states he said:

"Is it true that you are running a gambling house and house of ill fame at the Palace Rooming House?"

"Not now," is alleged to be the reply. "But I was," he said. "I'll do now, chief—I'll allow me to run a game and allow the 'Mrs' to keep a few girls in the Palace Rooming House I will pay you and Reynolds $120 a month."

"I (Sullivan) then stood up and said to you mean to say that you will pay me and Constable Reynolds $120 a month to run a house of ill fame."

"Yes, chief. I can make some money and you can make some money also."

"I then addressed Turner and said: 'Turner, you are under arrest,' telling him the charge. Turner then told me that that reporter would write me up in the paper. I told him that I didn't care for either of them."

Sullivan then said that it was the third time that he had been corruptly offered money by Turner. He stated that Turner told him the first time that when everything got quiet they could keep a few girls and carry on gambling and double the chief's wages. When offered money the second time the chief says he himself replied:

"If I can't prosper on my regular wages I will leave, but I want no blood money."

Sullivan said that inasmuch as he had no corroborative evidence up to yesterday he could not bring a case.

Cross-Examination. The counsel for the defense brought out nothing tending until he connected Sullivan with another gambling room, that has been in operation for two months or over. Sullivan said he had heard reports that gambling was going on there, and although he rooms in the same building he knew nothing more incriminating, he stated, than these reports.

He said that he could not find out anything about the place in any week or ten days. [Take note that the Chief is or has been rooming there and the game has been going for at least two months.]

REYNOLDS'S TESTIMONY. When Constable Reynolds was called upon the stand he corroborated the chief's testimony in almost every particular, except that the occupants of the suites on entering the Palace Rooming House always went in by the front entrance to his observation.

Reynolds confirmed the chief's statement about the bribe alleged to have been offered.

On cross-examination Reynolds stated that the only complaint against the Palace that he could recall was made by a man named Washburn, whose wife was sick and was carried by hilarity at the house, which adjourns.

Councillor T. A. Hicks was called on the stand and stated that he may have said to Sullivan on the occasion of a certain conversation, that Sullivan had "better get busy on things."

TURNER'S TESTIMONY. Turner states that just as soon as he entered the chief's office yesterday noon the chief slammed the door and with an epithet at the writer turned on Turner and said that he would show Turner and the writer where we "got off at."

Turner says that the chief said: "I never told you to chase down gambling or playing cards; You can consider yourself under arrest." Asked what for, he said "bribery." Turner testified that Sullivan told him that he, Turner, was running to the writer with information to get assistance in putting something over on the chief. With that, Turner's testimony was practically ended, except for giving the length of his acquaintance with the woman in question. The case was adjourned until 2.30 this afternoon.

We might say to the chief that inasmuch as he connected a bad case of shaky knees on Tuesday evening writer came out of the Palace Rooming House last Saturday night at 11.30 p. m., and inasmuch as his shakiness was accounted for by a head-on collision we had at another place on Tuesday evening, he might explain why he put two and two together and framed up an imaginary frame-up on him. He can't get anything on the writer in a hundred years and we will like him to try.

Mr. Snake succumbed to the force of a head-on collision we had at another place on Tuesday evening, he might explain why he put two and two together and framed up an imaginary frame-up on him. He can't get anything on the writer in a hundred years and we will like him to try.

We had our battery all framed up without a word from Turner, and as a matter of fact the conversation we had with him was for the purpose of a grilling.

In this afternoon's session in the trial of Walter Turner for alleged bribery, a Mrs. Bricknell, whom Turner stated came up here from Lethbridge with the avowed intention of trying to get into some legitimate business, and undertook the management of the Palace Rooming House in that spirit, took the stand and under oath swore that Chief Sullivan had had immoral relations with her on several occasions and that it was with the idea of giving the house immunity and allowing girls to be brought in for commercial vice that Sullivan wanted such immoral relations with her. This, we are told, is the evidence introduced at 8 o'clock today. It has created much excitement.

Snakes Bother Caldwellwood. The following article was handed to us about Jack Caldwellwood the other day:

"Our esteemed townsman and deputy fire chief, Mr. Jack Caldwellwood, while on a prospecting tour around town last Sunday morning heard of a rattlesnake having been seen out on prairie to the north of the town. Now everyone knows snakes (whether seen through a glass darkly or roaming at large in the untamed prairie) are antithetical to Mr. Caldwellwood, so Jack immediately hit the trail.

"With that unerring instinct and wonderful acuteness, which enables him to locate holes where the untamed purchaser sees nothing but country, he located Mr. Snake and after a terrific interview in which Mr. Caldwellwood brought out all those arguments which have made him such a success in his line of endeavor.

Mr. Snake succumbed to the force of a head-on collision we had at another place on Tuesday evening, he might explain why he put two and two together and framed up an imaginary frame-up on him. He can't get anything on the writer in a hundred years and we will like him to try.

of the arguments, and his tail is now waving among other snakes of value in Mr. Caldwellwood's office. It's a true tale. Prospective purchasers visiting Mr. Caldwellwood's office will be allowed a peep at it. Buyers may even be allowed to rattle it.

GRAIN MARKETING COSTS.

In a few days a report will be made public of the findings and recommendations of the Saskatchewan commission on grain credit and grain markets. This body has been making an exhaustive study of the profit leakages accruing to the marketing of the grains produced by the farmers of Western Canada.

In a report that is a forerunner of a more minute diagnosis of the trouble the commission places the onus of responsibility for the farmer's financial battle as directly responsible to an antiquated rural credit system and the cost of transportation of grain from the field to the consumer.

Why should Canada's grain cost more to place on the European market than the crops of the States and the Siberian yield? That is the essence of the commission's report. The commission has spent three months in investigating European markets and the handling of the grain in the hands of the exporters as against the competition of all of the other grain producing countries.

What good does it do to reflect on the wonderful increase in grain acreage if it does not materially increase the per capita wealth of the Dominion and more particularly the western provinces?

If the productivity of the western soils and the great acreage does not give the blue ribbon to Canada in the great Grain Derby there is a screw loose somewhere, and that is what the Saskatchewan commission is now boiling down.

The commission has made an advance statement that it can be laid at the door of excessive lake and ocean transportation. As for the lake transportation, it is hard to understand why it would cost more to put grain from the elevators at Port Arthur down to the seaboard than from Duluth or Superior. There are bonded wheelbarrows working those Great Lakes waters on uniform tolls.

The other rein in the argument is a four-in-hand whip argument for Canada every time. The States has no more chant marine. The foreign nations, when they weigh anchor in the Atlantic ports of America, have been under a greater expense in port by far than the British bottoms plying from the Eastern Canadian ports. Roughly, called from merchant marine statistics we recall of a couple of years ago, it is certain that not over five per cent of America's grain is ballasting the holds of American-owned bottoms on the Atlantic carrying trade.

What do the above facts mean? They mean that the ships that carry America's competing grain to the markets on the Continent are laboring under a greater burden of tonnage and leakage tolls and discriminatory handicaps while the ships that carry Canada's grain go scot free in comparison. Will the commission bring out these facts? They have been studying New York and Boston. Those are two of the greatest forwarding grain markets on the Atlantic coast. If the farmers are losing their profits to the transportation companies indirectly through the lowering of wheat in the primary market price to cheap they are being lined up against the wall and robbed, hands up. Within our knowledge, which is not infallibly correct but is somewhere near the mark, we cannot get our single argument, which does not point to what should be a downward tendency unless there is some graft somewhere.

The commission is authority for the statement that the cost of putting Canada's grain on the world's market is nearly double that of any other wheat-growing country.

Then it is up to Mr. Farmer to wage an unflinching battle for his rights. The wealth of Canada is dependent on the property of the farmer, and the East if she doesn't know it will, sooner or later. The East is the legislator and distributor and the West is the producer. If the farmer of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba had been getting a fair share on credit and transportation the last year he wouldn't be temporarily scratching his head so hard.

As stated in last week's REVIEW, Canada's wheat trade with Germany has more than tripled in the last year. The figures are 2,000,220 bushels.

Look here Mr. Farmer! The above are the Ottawa export figures with Germany alone. 2,000,220 bushels amount to approximately $8,000,000. Water transportation costs less than one cent per ton-mile in the States as a rule. That is about $18 per ton excess from Halifax to Liverpool if it is double here. The commission says that Canadian transportation costs double that of any other country. Figure it out Mr. Farmer! Figures won't lie. You have given away $1,440,000 out of your pocket in just the one commodity of wheat to the one country of Germany last year. If all of the other grains to all of the other countries bear this out is any wonder that you are slightly up against it this year, and here in Alberta are clamoring for a $10,000,000 loan? Stop the leakage and then we won't have to embarrass ourselves by borrowing. There must be some transportation companies fattening to gluttony off of Mr. Farmer.

What do the above facts mean? They mean that the ships that carry America's competing grain to the markets on the Continent are laboring under a greater burden of tonnage and leakage tolls and discriminatory handicaps while the ships that carry Canada's grain go scot free in comparison. Will the commission bring out these facts? They have been studying New York and Boston. Those are two of the greatest forwarding grain markets on the Atlantic coast. If the farmers are losing their profits to the transportation companies indirectly through the lowering of wheat in the primary market price to cheap they are being lined up against the wall and robbed, hands up. JACK TAYLOR PINS THREE LOCAL MEN

The wrestling bouts of last Friday evening, though not advertised very extensively in advance, drew out about 150 sport lovers at the Empress theater and gave some good samples of the familiar mat hold. Jack Taylor, heavy weight champion of Canada, took on three local men during the course of the evening's bouts, all of whom showed considerable undeveloped skill at wriggling out of Taylor's holds.

Taylor is a big man and had the advantage in weight over his first two opponents, Palin and Willard Towle, but not over his last adversary, name unknown, who, however, was loaded with weight that was of less use to him than the muscular weight of Taylor. This last man showed crude ability that with his fame might develop quite a wrestler with the proper training.

Two falls straight won the evening's supremacy for Miss Rita Taylor, sister of Jack Taylor, over her rival, Miss Ada Lomine, in the ladies contest which filled in the program between the other matches.

Miss Lomine appeared to be more lile and to have fully as good command of the holds of the game, but lacking in weight she did not retain her advantage at several times. The ladies matches were up and tuck and held the mat fans as closely as those by Taylor himself. Had the latter had opponents of comparative ability he would certainly put up a good offensive hand on the mat. Taylor is a victor over Dr. Holler, of Seattle.

Brick Go Through Fire Before they Go to You.

They are made from clay and the clay is burned in a heat that averages 2200 degrees Fahrenheit—a heat far greater than any fire they will ever be called upon to pass through in the walls of your house.

This is what makes Brick Fire-proof.
That is what makes Brick Frost-proof.
That is what makes Brick Imperishable.

Build Your Home of Brick—IT'S ECONOMY

True economy not only takes in the first cost but the cost that is to come. Brick houses of average construction cost but a few dollars more than lumber or stucco—say $150 on a $3,500 house. But when they are erected cost stops. There are no repairs to be figured on. There is no painting to be counted in every 3 or 4 years. There is no depreciation in price—consequently your house will sell for what it cost you, plus the increase of the value of your lot in the meanwhile. There is a reduction in the insurance rate of 37½ per cent over concrete or stucco and more than 50 per cent over lumber. There is a reduction in fuel bills because brick keeps out the frost in winter. There is comfort in summer because brick keeps out the heat. And above all you can borrow more money from your bank on a brick house ten years after it is constructed than you can on a lumber or concrete of the same value in the same period of time. When you build, build for true economy.

FIRST DEPOT BLOCK IS WELL UNDER WAY

Solid Brick Restaurant Is Rising Near Future Hub of Business.

A new venture in the restaurant trade will be tried out within a stone's throw of the C. P. R. depot when Max Con's building now under course of construction is completed. Con says it is his intention in building it to lease it for restaurant purposes as he believes it is a good stand for future growth and patronage.

The building will front on Sixth street, but is being built so that a fractional portion of the triangular lot can be built on with stores backing up to the north wall of the present building and presenting a solid front of stores toward the depot and C. P. R. right-of-way at a small expense.

The lot in Block 110, is about the closest building site to the depot. The building now being erected, 25 feet by 60 feet in dimensions, will cost $5,000. There is a small cellar under the rear of the building. There will be eleven rooms and a bath upstairs.

The building is being built back over three feet from the building line so that there may be a balcony with part of the second floor projecting out without overhanging the sidewalk and so as to afford shelter without awnings.

Mr. Con has been doing considerable building in Medicine Hat, but is equally interested in the progress of Redcliff and is willing to stake considerable money on futures here.

Baseball Supporters Hold Dance To-Night

The completion of Len Barber's new store on Broadway will be signalled tonight by a dance given by him for the benefit of the baseball team.

The ball team has been on the financial rocks for some time and is deserving of hearty support tonight. As evidence of their good faith they are holding a ball game at 6.15 this evening, prior to the dance. The game is to be with the team from Irvine, Alta.

The ground floor of the Club building is 100 feet by 25 feet and should be ample space for about all the dancers who can come. The Redcliff Band will give a concert and furnish music for the dance. A prize will be given to the couple that dance the most graceful waltz and two-step. Supper will follow the evening's dances. A couple can dance as little or much as they care to, as the dances will be charged for by the number of dances taken part in.

Catholic Services.

Mass will be held in Empress Hall, Sunday, Aug. 24, at 10.30 a. m., and in Maple Hall, Sunday, Sept. 14, at 10.30 a. m.

PRAIRIE GAS

If Somers were here he would ascribe this placid period to the fact that since the Rocky mountains burned down and the air became petrified and the real estate men secured a lease on the advertising space on the sky to exploit Redcliff property with natural gas illumination at night there hasn't been one bit of excitement at all.

Some of these trains that go scotching through Redcliff like they had been sent for further orders will soon be glad to blow off steam and gas around a while at the biggest town between Winnipeg and Vancouver.

DRUG STORE FOR SOUTH THIRD ST.

Sykes Building to Be Altered For Occupancy by Saskatchewan Man.

T. R. Blaine is packing up a carload of goods near Regina preparatory to removal to Redcliff to occupy about two thirds of the Sykes building on third street south of Broadway with a stock of drugs and sundries.

To accommodate a stock of the kind it has been made necessary to take out a center hall wall and throw the whole space into one room. Also a door is being cut through into a rear room which will be the prescription room. The present building will be made to conform with a new building now going up adjoining it by putting an arched cornice over the center of the whole to unite them.

Presbyterian Church.

A meeting of the congregation and all interested in the erection of a church worthy the town, will be held in the church on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock to consider the plans proposed for the new church. The architect will show his plans and explain them, and the people will be asked to approve or disapprove of them. This is a most important meeting for the town and the business men and others ought to make a point of attending.

Mr. Gordon will speak next Sabbath morning on "Faith versus Works," and in the evening on "God a Consenting Fly."

Public worship will be held in the church at 11 a. m. and in the Empress Theatre at 7.30 p. m. Sabbath school at 2.30 and Bible class at 3.30.

The mid-week service on Wednesday will be largely occupied with the form, outside and inside, of the stately and commodious new church.

The Ladies' Aid meets on Thursday at 2.30 p. m. and the choir at 8 p. m.

Robertson Building Exterior Completed

The brick work is almost completed on F. Robertson & Son's furniture store on Sixth street. The front is of No. 9, unpressed brick and the south side of number two, all laid in red mortar. This firm will henceforth be known as the Redcliff Furniture Company, with Mr. Fred R. Robertson as manager.

The Robertson store since he called the pioneer in the business field of Sixth street, as it was the first to erect a building on this street, which shortly will be in the very heart of the city.

The original intention of the builders was to veneer the building with brick and their ideas have been carried out in a very neat style.

WARE'S BUILDING TO BE HIGH CLASS

Experience of Regina Man Is That Extra Expense Brings Greater Returns.

Mr. A. F. Ware, proprietor of the Queens Hotel at Regina, and the man who has put in one of the finest excavations and footings that underlie any building in Redcliff, states in connection with his building now about to be erected on Third Street, that it will be as solid and substantial as any in the city.

Mr. Ware says that from his experience in building work he has found that a larger initial outlay will prevent cracking walls, shifting doors and joints and a general run-down condition of buildings after a few years of exposure to the elements. For that reason his building is being erected on concrete footings capable of supporting several stories. However, the condition of the soil here is such that shallow foundations do not shift as much as they do back in Regina.

Nine years ago Mr. Ware pulled into Regina from his western Nebraska home with but a few hundred dollars which he juggled until now he has holdings representing one hundred times his first lump sum. Mr. Ware is so sure that Redcliff will be not only a city, but a city as big as Regina in but a few years that he considers a permanent outlay the best kind of an investment.

Joyful Ride Heralds Strohm's Departure

Mr. T. G. Bole, of the Merchant's Bank, made Henry Strohm's departure to Minneapolis an occasion to be remembered for some little time. At any rate, it is understood that the back end of Bole's auto came out while it was crawling over the road to Medicine Hat at about forty miles an hour and precipitated the occupants into the street, but we couldn't confirm the report. Mr. Strohm sold out his Third Street pool room to Mr. Gallinger, the real estate man, and the new proprietor arranged a banquet in honor of Mr. Strohm. It was held at the Redcliff Hotel Monday night and was closed by a running start to the Hat in Bole's auto. Mr. Strohm will be back in Redcliff before a great while, he says.
